

A Room with a View

by E. M. Forster (1879-1970)

When Lucy Honeychurch travels to Italy with her cousin, she meets George Emerson, a bohemian and an atheist who falls in love with her. Upon her return to England, she is forced to choose between free-spirited George and her more conventional fiancé, Cecil Vyse.

The novel, published in 1908, is both a romance and a critique of Edwardian society at the beginning of the 20th century.
